

Flawed Faith

As I looked out the front windshield of the car it was tipped at what looked to be near a 45 degree angle. I struggled to get the car back onto two wheels as the car went off into the Arizona desert. I regained control and returned to the pits and my crew asked me where I'd been. I explained that I had been out for a nice drive through the desert.

We later learned that the suspension settings we had been using were not compatible with the new tires we had fitted. No amount of faith on my part, no amount of resolve, courage or ability would have made them work. I had risked my life based on incorrect information. The object of my faith, that car with its flawed settings, was not worthy of my faith.

Some say that it does not matter what you believe in but that just having faith alone is enough. But as I learned, the faith we have is only as good as the object we put our faith in. If that object is flawed then our faith is in vain.

In the book of Revelation the angels announce who the One is that is worthy of our faith:

REV 4:11 "You are worthy, our Lord and God, to receive glory and honor and power, for you created all things, and by your will they were created and have their being."

REV 5:11-12 Then I looked and heard the voice of many angels, numbering thousands upon thousands, and ten thousand times ten thousand. They encircled the throne and the living creatures and the elders. In a loud voice they sang: "Worthy is the Lamb, who was slain, to receive power and wealth and wisdom and strength and honor and glory and praise!"

As we come to this time of communion, let us remember Jesus who is the worthy object of our faith and that he gave himself freely for us. He alone is worthy of our faith.

It is He alone who is the ultimate worthy One.
